Come to Moores closing out sale.

Please hand us that $15. Suits $7.00 at Moore's.

Farmers are beginning to "fatten their meat hogs". If you want bargains come to the closing out sale at Moores.

Remember the 8th. episode of the "Million Dollar Mystery" will be shown at the Opera House Friday Night.

Fall vegetables were never more abundant, and cantaloupes and water melons are yet being offered in the market.

The mercury dropped down to the half hundred notch last week, but the watchful observers have as yet failed to report any frost.

The present abundant crops and high prices they are commanding is a splendid argument in favor of the "back to the farm" movement.

The frugal man fills his coal house early against the near approach of winter, thereby saving several cents per bushel upon the supply.

Many an old sport brought back his childhood days Sunday morning by seeing the erection of the circus tent. "Took the children out" of course.

The fields are at present resplendent in their covering of "bee weed" or the bonnie white heather, here and there interspersed with the stately golden rod.

Grocers take a gloomy view as to the canned goods market during the coming winter. An unprecedented quantity of fruit and vegetables has been "put up" by the thrifty and far seeing housewives of the county.

Traders are scouring the country side in search of stock for the city markets, and it would seem that the supply would become exhausted. However, they dig up a load somewhere and shipments go out from here each week.

Those eccentric comedians, dancers the (Black Mutt and Jeff) of Minstrelsy Vermont & Hellman with Coburn's Greater Minstrels next Saturday at the Opera House. They are only one of the six big vaudeville Minstrel specialties featured by Manager Coburn this year in his all new attraction. Seats on sale at McRoberts Drug Store.

FARMERS BUSY.

These are busy days with the farmer plowing for wheat, winding up getting tobacco crops, filling the silos and getting the cover crops in the ground. Much rye, and barley is being sown, and in some instances these crops are showing an inch above the ground giving promise of rich fall grazing.

RICHLI DESERVES IT.

Mr. Len Miller, the efficient foreman in the Record office, has moved into his recently completed bungalow on Danville street. The residence is one of the handsomest bungalows in Lancaster and Len is as happy as a big sunflower.

The work was done by James Hood the well known colored contractor and is the second attractive house of this style that he has built on Danville street in the past year.

GIVEN A HEARTY WELCOME.

Big hearted "Jim" West ran into Lancaster for a few days to see his mother Mrs. Rebecca West, and was given a hearty welcome by his host of friends. Jim is with the Western Oil Co. of Indianapolis Ind., one of John D. Rockefeller's most formidable competitors. He is one of their most successful and valuable salesmen. He is at present located at Maysville Ky, but will shortly return to Lancaster for a visit of two weeks.

CARD OF APPRECIATION.

Burned with grief and looking to God alone for consolation, we express the gratitude of our hearts for words of comfort and the many helping hands from friends and relatives, in this our hour of greatest affliction.

The sweet song service, the minister's thoughts, so tenderly expressed and the beautiful flowers, caused us to feel that the harmonies of heaven were being realized on earth.

M. D. Hughes and family.

GETTING TOBACCO HOUSED.

The farmers had another splendid week of tobacco cutting weather last week, the frost holding off, seemingly in order to give them every opportunity to cut and house their crops, and the opportunity was taken advantage of to the greatest extent, with the result that at least 75 per cent of the crop is safely housed. However, late set tobacco is not fully matured and the growers are awaiting just as long as possible before cutting it.

Representatives of the various warehouses throughout the country are stirring around "getting a line" on the crop, but the farmers have grown a little more optimistic as to the outlook and are not inclined to sacrifice their holdings, even were there any offerings, which there are not, but on the other hand, are growing more confident that they will realize good prices ultimately for their holdings.

Bischof's for quality at Josephs nuf ced

TOBACCO SOLICITORS IN THE FIELD.

Mr. Charles W. Anderson has accepted a position with the Walnut Street Tobacco House in Danville Ky, and will look after their interests in this county. As many Garrard county people who have sold their holdings over the Danville breaks know, this is a splendid house, and the addition of Mr. Anderson to their efficient corps of employees our people are assured of a square deal and the best prices the market affords.

COTTON GROWN IN LANCASTER.

This statement sounds incredible, but it is nevertheless true. Mr. R. Zimmer, proprietor of the Kengarian Hotel has several stalks of cotton in his garden in the rear of the hotel, and he showed us a boll fully developed, and apparently as good as ever raised in the state of Mississippi. Of course it would take one more experienced to say whether or not it was of the long or short staple variety, but it did appear to be perfectly good cotton.

HIGH HONORS FOR YOUNG MAN.

Hon. W. C. Black of Barbourville, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Rigney last week, and who accompanied the Lancaster Masons on their Liberty trip, is comparatively young man to occupy the exalted position which he holds in Masonic circles, that of Grand High Priest of the Royal Arch Masons of Kentucky. Mr. Black will retire in October, his term of office expiring at that time.

Mr. Black resides in Barbourville and is one of the most prominent coal operators in eastern Kentucky. He is a pleasant gentleman and an ever welcome visitor in Lancaster where he frequently visits.

SECOND SESSION OF MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS.

The second session of moonlight schools begins October 5th, and this bids fair to be better than the first session, for most of the teachers who gained experience in the first session are just ready now for good work. Also the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission is better equipped in the matter of supplies and in their drills on good roads, health, agriculture, domestic science, etc. Any teacher who desires supplies or information will please write the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, Frankfort, Ky. Also, all who are teaching or who propose to teach a moonlight school should write this Commission, at Frankfort, and get credit for their work.

SENATOR CAMDEN WILL REWARD TRUSTEES.

Senator Johnson N. Camden writes the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission from Washington that he will give $50. to the Trustee who, in the judgment of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, aids in making the best moonlight school in the state. This prize will be awarded on reports of campaigning done by trustee to secure attendance at the school, on the trustee's own attendance, and other activities which the trustee may perform toward making the school a great success. There is yet time for any trustee in the State to compete for this prize. The second session of moonlight schools begins October 5th, and thousands of such schools will open then, while many others will continue their sessions already begun. Senator Camden sent his check to the Commission and the prize will be in the hands of the trustee by Thanksgiving. Senator Camden also writes his hearty endorsement of this movement, which he is watching from Washington with interest.

JOE KELLY WITH LEXINGTON INSTEAD OF LOUISVILLE CONCERN.

The Record's informant was incorrect in telling us that Joe Kelly would be with the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Co. Joe will solicit for the Lexington Tobacco Warehouse Co. soliciting shipments to the Planter's house, and during the season will be in the house and will give his personal attention to the shipment of his customers.

That splendid musical minstrel vaudeville feature "The Imperial Musical Hussars" with Nicodemus Glynn the funniest man in minstrelsy as comedian with Coburns Greater Minstrels next Saturday night at the Opera House. Mr. Glynn's comedy and musical ability is too well known for comment. His latest offering is the above sterling musical feature. Among quartette offerings of Saxophones, brass and string numbers interspersed with "Nicks" comical capers of brand new vintage these musicians give a church organ number, an imitation which is a beautiful and novel selection featured in their clever act. This is only one of the all new attraction features Manager Coburn promises for next Saturday night.

THREE SPLENDID GENTLEMEN FORM PARTNERSHIP

To Continue Well Known Business Stand.

Messrs Hugh T. Logan, Sim Anderson and Harry Tomlinson have purchased the assigned stock of H. T. Logan and will continue the business at the old stand. These gentlemen need no introduction to the people of Garrard county, and that they will get their share of the business goes without saying. Mr. Logan has been in business in Lancaster for over twenty years and is one of the most popular gentlemen in the county. Sim Anderson has been with Mr. Logan "ever since he was a boy", and that is a long time ago, while Harry Tomlinson is the popular deputy clerk under county clerk Will Hamilton, and has issued enough marriage licenses to assure him the best business in the county, would all to whom he has issued them patronize him. It is rumored that his final official act will be to issue one to himself, but those who know him best doubt it. These gentlemen are going to be strong contenders for the business in their line of this and adjoining counties.

CAPT. W. W. BROWN ROUNDS OUT FIFTY YEARS. Honorable Service With L. & N.

Capt. William Monroe Brown of Lowell this county has resigned his position as Section Foreman for the Louisville & Nashville railroad, the company has granted him a comfortable pension and he will spend the remainder of his days in peace and quietude, well earned.

Capt. Brown went with the railroad in 1867, when the ties were down only as far as Lowell, succeeding his stepfather the late William Monroe as Section Foreman, and he has been with them ever since, through summers sun and winters snows, night and day, he has given them faithful service, and now in his declining years the company in recognition of his faithful services, have retired him with a pension sufficient to make his last days, days of comfort. Counting the over time Capt. Brown has made, night work, wrecks etc. he has been with the company exactly fifty years.

Capt. Brown is one of the most substantial and highly respected citizens in the county, and throughout his long career his employers have never had occasion to find fault with him, and he retires with their unstinted respect and good wishes.

Capt. Brown recently sustained a severe blow in the death of his faithful wife, and this with the weight of years which are beginning to tell upon him to some extent, brought him to the conclusion to give up the arduous calling which he has so long pursued. He is at present with his son-in-law, Mr. John Tribble, where he will remain for some time.

LANCASTER CHAPTER NO. 56, R. A. M. MAKE TRIP TO LIBERTY TO EXEMPLIFY WORK.

Three automobiles with Messrs Milton Elliott, Tom Chestnut and Charley Dean at the wheels left Lancaster last Friday morning carrying Grand High Priest W. C. Black of Barbourville, and Messrs W. O. Rigney, J. W. Sweeney, J. Rockwell Smith, F. P. Frisbie, John A. Conn, A. T. Anderson H. V. Bastin, Henry Simpson, J. T. Chestnut and George Smith, Jr., while the crowd was augmented by Grand Secretary Dave Jackson at Stanford. They were headed for Liberty where they conferred the four degrees of Roy al Arch Masonry upon a class of ten candidates as follows: C. E. Moore, Minister M. E. Church, C. T. Claunch, Minister Baptist Church, A. S. Jeffries Minister Baptist Church, E. L. Cundiff, County School Superintendent, A. A. Allison, Principal Liberty Graded Schools, W. T. Earle, lumber agent, W. M. Minor, International Harvester Co., E. C. Russell, proprietor Green River Wooler Mills, J. P. Conder merchant, J. H. Reed, barber and F. O. Barger merchant. The candidates were as representative body of men as we ever had the pleasure seeing apply for admission to a fraternal organization, and with such new material, Liberty Chapter should certainly prosper.

All of the Lancaster crowd were delighted with the reception they received at the hands of the Liberty people, Casey county hospitality is not new to them, and they are ever ready to go there. However, upon this occasion the programme was varied somewhat, after the work, we were given the pleasure of hearing excellent talks from G. H. P. Black and Sec. Jackson and a number of the candidates, after which the good ladies of Liberty surprised us with a sumptuous banquet, prepared and spread in the corridor of the court house. The tables were laden with the most toothsome viands, and demonstrated fully that the good ladies of Casey are as expert as the men at the art of caring for the stranger within their gates.

DAIRY WISDOM.

The pure bred cow carries a great possibility of reproduction of the qualities of her ancestors. In her the power of heredity predominates because she is bred for that particular line.

Every one who is interested in dairying is not necessarily a dairyman.

The folly of keeping low producing cows should be so apparent that such cows would be shunned as thieves and robbers.

The way to secure a good dairy herd is to breed it and produce it on the farm rather than to depend upon purchases every season.

The silo and dairying always go together. The silo, when rightly used, will help to make the cows more profitable.

WEED OUT LOAFERS FROM DAIRY HERD

[Prepared by dairy division, United States department of agriculture.]

The work of testing the dairy herd is most interesting and produces many surprises. Many of the finest appearing cattle will be found to be the poorest producers, while some of the animals thought to be scrubs will be worthy of a place in the constructed herd. No time should be lost in disposing of the unproductive cows. A market can readily be had for those in good condition, while the money received for their sale can be most wisely expended by purchasing a sire and two or more dams of a dairy breed. These new animals should not be purchased without first knowing their record of production.

If the time, labor and expense of caring for the poor cows in the dairy herd were utilized in the care of the better animals the results would be wonderful and the profits manifold. Think of caring for half the number of cows in your herd and getting twice as much profit from their maintenance. Every cow should be given a thorough test under the most favorable conditions, and, if then found wanting, the sooner she is disposed of the better. No cow should be condemned before testing, for the animal that lacks quantity yielding may produce milk containing a high percentage of fat.

Many cows that once were great producers may now have passed their usefulness.

The Holstein cow is growing in favor wherever her qualities are known. As an economical producer of milk and butter she is in the front rank. Indeed, the admirers of the Holstein say she is unequalled in her specialty. The pure bred Holstein shows was bred and is owned by the University of Nevada. In a seven day test she gave 755 pounds of milk containing fourteen pounds of butter fat, but one year and eight months of age.

fulness. Generally the milk flow increases until the animals are seven years old. Then the yield remains almost the same until the twelfth year, when there is a decrease. Ordinarily a cow is at her best between the ages of six and ten years.

The winter season is now near, and it costs considerable more to maintain the herd than during the summer and fall months. The sooner the poor cows can be disposed of the better it will be for the dairyman. Look upon the poor cow as a liability and not as an asset, and the sooner she is got rid of the better.

Cost of Silos.

The initial cost of a silo is what steps a great many farmers when they are urged to consider the economy of the silage method of feeding the corn crop. From $200 to $1,000 may be spent on a silo, the stave silo to hold a hundred tons coming close to the smaller figure and the best types of monolithic silos of sixty feet heights costing the larger sum. Pit silos can be built for less than this, the main cost being chiefly labor, which the owner may contribute himself at some slack period.

Ration for a Dairy Bull.

A very good grain ration for a bull is a mixture of equal parts by weight of ground oats and bran, says Board's Dairyman. If the droppings of the animal seem somewhat dry, from a half to a pound of oilmeal may be fed daily. A bull weighing from 1,500 to 1,800 pounds in service will require from six to eight pounds of the grain mixture mentioned. In connection with this let the animal have all the alfalfa desired.

When to Feed Silage.

The silage may be fed just as soon as the silo is filled. It is not necessary to wait for it to ripen or to cure, but if there is an abundance of pasture you may wait as long as you wish. It is one of the most convenient and easily adaptable feeds that can be found anywhere.

KENTUCKY WOMAN, SUFFERER FROM STOMACH ILLS, QUICKLY RESTORED

Mrs. Belle Hawkins Uses Mayr Remedy—
"Never Felt Better in My Life."

Mrs. Belle Hawkins, Eminence, Ky., was a victim of stomach disorders. She took a great deal of treatment and medical attention.

At last she tried Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and got real results. In a letter telling of her experience she said:

"I have taken all of the medicine I ordered of you and will say it has done more good than all the doctors and medicine I ever tried. I don't really think I need any medicine now, as I think I am well, I never felt better in my life. If I ever should need any medicine I know where to get it."

That is a typical letter, taken as one Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy in all parts of the country. It proves its merit with the first dose—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to R. E. McRoberts drug store and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist 154-156 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its wonderful effects.

The Overland Trail

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

In the old days of the Overland trail, the pony express and the lumbering stagecoach stage stations had been erected at a distance of fifteen miles apart throughout the length of the whole trail. After the first thirty miles from the Missouri river no coach was safe from attack until it reached San Francisco. The Indians could not use fire as a weapon, nor could they carry a station by assault, but they captured many of them by trickery or siege. In no case was the life of a company employee ever spared.

Never were greater hardihood and bravery exhibited than by the men selected to drive the coaches.

As the stage rolled through the heavy sand of some strips of desert or met several miles of stony and uphill trail a band of a hundred yelling warriors would suddenly appear. The driver must fight as well as guide his excited team. It was when the Overland company finally appealed to the government to clear its route through Kansas that General Custer was sent out with a brigade of troopers. Custer couldn't hope to strike a telling blow against the hordes in the field, but he laid his plans to open the route and drive the Indians back from it.

As we followed the trail to the west we picked up station after station, showing gruesome sights.

Custer's whole command witnessed the arrival of the last stage from the west—the last for several weeks. From a hilltop three miles from the trail, with impassable gullies between, we saw the coach come up the trail with 100 Indians pursuing it. It was a running fight, which aroused every man to the highest pitch of excitement, but we were helpless to extend aid. Through the clear air of a summer afternoon we saw the stage horses slip down and the coach overturn. The passengers made a brave fight to the last, but none of them escaped. It was night before we had made our detour and reached the station, and the Indians had departed long before. They had captured the station two hours before they attacked the stage.

If this station had failed to hold out how would it be with Pawnee Flat, the next station to the west, and with White Horse, the next after that? The first was a four man station and the next a relay of eight. As we rode away through the night not a man had the slightest hope of Pawnee, though we knew it would have been defended as long as one of the four could lift a gun. We reached it at about 11 o'clock. It was as we had feared. Over 200 Indians had swarmed down out of the hills at daybreak the morning before, and though they had lost a score of men, the dugout had been carried by assault and its defenders butchered. We waited here half an hour to give the poor corpses burial and then pushed on toward White Horse. It was not until we got within two miles of the station that our fears were relieved. Then we heard the reports of rifles and knew that the place was still holding out.

The station was situated about midway of a long, bare hill. To the west of it was a coulee, or dry ravine, with banks twenty feet high. We had with us a couple of scouts, who knew every rod of the Overland trail, and when within a mile of the station these men were sent forward to spy out the station. They returned after awhile to report that Spotted Horse and about 150 of his "dog soldiers" as the Cheyennes were called, were laying siege to the station and had evidently occupied the ground for two or three days. The ground around the dugout was so open that the Indians dared not "rush" the place, nor was there any need to use a keg of powder without reckless exposure. With their allies holding the trail to the east, the Cheyennes had entered upon a siege in hopes to starve the defenders out. Their war ponies and most of the band were lying up in the dry ravine for the night. This ravine had no opening to the south and was therefore a cul de sac.

The first signs of dawn were in the sky when we saddled up, mounted, and the whole of us pushed forward, led by the scouts, for the mouth of the ravine. We had the Spencer carbines, each with a full magazine, and as we got the order to charge each man began shooting. When a carbine was empty it was thrown away and a revolver used in its place. When the revolver was empty it was cast aside for the sabre. Extended from tank to tank, we swept up the ravine, and we had nothing to do but kill. Taken by surprise, the Cheyennes thought only of getting away. The fight did not last above thirty minutes, and our loss was only three men wounded.

Down in the ravine we harvested seventy-eight dead Indians, and on the banks above the stage met mounted up twenty-two more. We got upward of 100 rifles, about 50 pistols, 130 ponies and a wagon load of miscellaneous stuff. Every Indian lying there was a dead one. Custer had said, "Shoot to kill!" and there was no wounded or prisoners. Among the killed were Spotted Horse, Big Moon and White Bird, and that fight broke the backbone of the Cheyennes. Their part in the war was to capture all the stations west of Burning Hill, but they had taken only Pawnee Flat. They never rode to war again. Within a week they were suing for peace, and they were the first to be gathered on a reservation.

Which Was Which?

By EUNICE BLAKE

"Lucy," said Lucinda, "I don't believe your Bob or my Dick can tell us apart."

"Not in the dark," was the reply.

"Nor in the light. Suppose we change our engagement rings and see if it doesn't fool them. I'll exchange my diamond solitaire for your sapphire. We dress alike, and Dick has said that we look more alike than any twins he has ever known. The only difference in any of the things about us is our engagement rings."

"We can try it anyway."

So the girls exchanged rings. It was Saturday, and their lovers usually called on that evening. Lucy's fiancé came in first, and Lucinda went down to receive him with her sister's diamond ring on her finger.

Bob Brackett arrived half an hour after Weatherbee. He was shown, as usual, into the library, where he found Lucy with her sister's sapphire on her finger. He, too, was deceived. The pair had not been long together when Brackett and Lucinda came into the room where they were.

"We've been discussing the wedding," Brackett said, "and there are points we must talk over with you two. How about the ushers? Shall we limit the reception to relatives or make it general?"

A number of such questions were taken up and discussed. The girls soon dropped their fiancés out of the argument, deliberating with each other. Dick winked at Bob and said: "Let's go and have a smoke. Bob, we don't count in these wedding plans."

The young men went to the smoking room, and Dick said to Bob, "Seen anything unusual in your girl?"

"No. Why do you ask?"

"They're putting up a job on us. It wasn't Lucinda who received you; it was Lucy."

"You don't mean it?"

"Yes, I do. I found out that Lucinda was with me by talking with her. When I mentioned something that only Lucy knew she was dead ignorant of it. But I didn't let on. I pretended still to be fooled. Now I tell you what we do. When they laugh at us for being fooled we'll declare we're not fooled at all. You cling to Lucy, and I'll do the same by Lucinda."

"Good boy! We'll do it!"

They returned to the library after their smoke without manifesting the slightest evidence that they had discovered the ruse that was being practiced upon them. When they arose to go, Dick, bidding good night to Lucinda, offered the usual kiss. She drew back, laughing. He stood looking at her with well feigned surprise.

"I'm not your girl; I'm Lucinda," she said.

"Oh, come! You can't impose on me in that way," said Dick. "You don't suppose I can't tell the girl I love from some other girl, do you?"

At this juncture Lucy, who in like manner had refused Bob a kiss, found it necessary to struggle with him. He pretended to take the matter in high dudgeon. Then the girls, both talking at once and both laughing, tried to explain that they had been playing a joke on their lovers. Dick, who led the way for both, winked at Bob, then walked up to Lucy and took her in his arms, whereupon Bob angrily pulled him away. Dick, in a fine stage passion, struck the man who had interfered with him, and a fracas ensued, the girls trying to part the antagonists. Bob declared that Lucy was the girl he loved and he would have no other. Dick veered around to his opinion, saying that he believed Bob was right and, having engaged himself to the girl who wore the ring he had given her, he didn't propose to marry her sister. Finally the two young men left the house, neither of their fiancées having received the usual parting kiss.

The girls stood looking at each other. They had some time before ceased to laugh.

"This is serious," said Lucy.

"Who proposed it?"

"I, but I didn't think they would be so stupid as to mistake us permanently."

"How are we going to prove which is which?"

"Mother'll have to set them right."

"I'm not sure they'll believe even her."

The next day Lucy called up her Dick on the phone.

"Dick," she said, "I'm Lucy."

"Which Lucy—the real one or the one whom it was attempted to foist on me last night?"

"Why, I'm the real Lucy. I wore Lucinda's ring."

There was a click, then a silence which Lucy could not break. She suggested that Lucinda call up Bob and try to appease him. Lucinda did so and, by promising that he and Dick might choose for themselves, secured his promise to call the same evening and bring Dick with him.

When the two men called each girl wore her own engagement ring.

"Now, which is which?" said Lucy.

Each man walked up to the girl he was really engaged to and gave her a kiss, which she received willingly. The girls were much relieved. The men refused to admit that they had changed rings and that each man had not passed the evening with his fiancée. But after awhile they told the story of their collusion and, having been roundly scolded for joking on so serious a subject, were forgiven.

One of the largest fires that has been in Stanford in about a year, occurred here Saturday at noon, when the large concrete warehouse of J. H. Baughman and Co. burst out in a blaze. The fire had gained such headway when discovered that nothing was saved. This is the second warehouse to burn on this site in two years. The origin of the fires remain a mystery and probably

HOW TO BEAUTIFY THE HAIR

A Simple and Inexpensive Home Method.

If your hair is not pretty; if it is losing its color, too dry, matted, falling out, or if the scalp itches and burns, you can overcome all of these conditions by using Parisian Sage, which supplies every hair need. It soaks right in to the hair roots, nourishment that is needed for the hair to grow not only long and heavy, but fluffy, soft lustrous and gloriously radiant.

You can get a bottle of this inexpensive, yet delightful and helpful hair tonic from R. E. McRoberts or at any drug store. Improvement begins with the very first application. Besides stopping the scalp irritation it removes every bit of dandruff. The use of this unequalled hair tonic will surely give your hair new life and beauty.

always will. They had $4,000 insurance but with that the loss will exceed $3000.

Since the moonlight school movement was inaugurated here several months ago, there is probably no other county in the state that has taken more interest in it than Lincoln county. Schools are being organized in all sections of this county by our best teachers. The most effective moonlight school that has been organized so far, is the one at Rowland, one mile east of here, by Mrs. H. D. Phillips and Miss Annie McKinney, two of the Stanford Graded schools best teachers. They have enrolled about 20 pupils in this school from the age of 25 to 55 years. There will be much good derived from these schools.

No little excitement was created here last week, when it was learned that Mrs. W. F. Dishon, who left here for Rochester Minn, had not been heard from since she left Louisville. She was on her way to undergo an operation under the Mayo Brothers. She went from here to Louisville where she had written her husband telling him that she would soon leave for Rochester, and he never heard any news until Saturday when he received a letter from her stating that she was taken ill on the train and was taken off at Ontario, and was there. Mr. Dishon was very much alarmed, thinking that probably she had been in a wreck.

THE ISSUE IN KENTUCKY.

In his opening speech at Somerset, Governor Beckham said:
"The chief issue in this campaign is whether or not the people of Kentucky endorse the work and policies of President Wilson's administration, and whether they wish to add or detract to its further service and progress. In the election of the two United States Senators, one for the short-term, and the other for the long term, and in the election of Representatives in the lower House of Congress, on November 3rd, you are given the opportunity of expressing your approval or disapproval of that administration, and also of determining whether Kentucky's votes in the two Houses of Congress shall uphold and assist the President during the remainder of his term, or shall be used to oppose and embarrass him in all of his important undertakings. If you approve and endorse his administration and desire to give your assistance to the great work in which it is engaged, then you should support the Democratic candidates for the Senate and for the lower House of Congress; for in that way alone, at this time, can you express your approval of it, or give any aid and encouragement to it."

Governor Beckham is right. The importance of this Campaign from a National standpoint cannot be overestimated. It involves the election of two Democratic United States Senators whose votes are critical in the Senate to support the policies of President Wilson. The election of two Republican Senators would be calamitous, to the party in this State, and a rebuke to the President at this crucial period when he needs the hearty support of every loyal patriotic Democrat in this nation.

President Wilson is showing a personal interest in the election of Governor Beckham and Senator Camden. He has urged Senator James and the Democratic Members of Congress to do everything in their power to bring about a Democratic victory in Kentucky this Fall, and he has likewise appealed to every friend he has in Kentucky. If President Wilson could make an address in this State, it would prove of great value to the party in this contest, but official duties detain him at Washington and grave National and international questions engage his whole attention. Later in the Campaign, he will make a written personal appeal to the voters of Kentucky, to stand by the Democratic nominees.

The opening at Somerset drew an immense crowd and the speeches of Gov. Beckham, Senator James and Governor McCreary were received with much favor. It was an auspicious beginning for one of the shortest and what promises to be one of the most successful Campaigns ever conducted by the Democrats in this State.

HUGHES.

A feeling of deepest sadness over-spread the entire community on last Saturday afternoon when it became known that Mrs. Martha Elkin Hughes, wife of Mr. M. D. Hughes, had unexpectedly breathed her last.

About two weeks ago while out automobiling with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. R. E. Hughes, Mrs. Hughes was considerably shaken up by the machine passing over a rough place in the turnpike, and she had been confined to her bed from this cause, which however is not thought to have contributed to her death, which was the result of hemorrhage of the brain.

Shortly before 4 o'clock on last Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Noland (nee Miss Mae Hughes) who has been constantly at her mother's bedside since her recent slight accident, had just finished giving her a bath, had propped her up in bed and retired to the dining room to get a spoon with which to give her some of some little delicacy which one of the neighbors had just sent in. Upon her return, her mother complained of not being able to get her breath, and almost before the distressed daughter could realize her condition, her mother had breathed her last. Mrs. Hughes had never suffered from any cerebral trouble, the first and only attack causing her death.

On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock funeral services were conducted at the late home on Water street by her pastor, Eld. F. M. Tindler, after which her remains were borne to their last resting place in the Lancaster cemetery. A long funeral cortege of sorrowing friends formed the funeral procession and ramparts of lovely flowers, which she loved so well, bore mute evidence of the love and esteem in which she was held.

Martha Elkin Hughes was born in Garrard county on the 7th day of April 1842, the daughter of the late Robert and Polly Elkin, and a member of the Elkin family, one of the oldest and most influential in this part of the state.

On the 9th day of February 1869 she was united in marriage to Matthew Dawson Hughes, and to this union was born three children, Robert E. Hughes of Louisville Ky, Mrs. Percy Noland, late of Seattle Wash., but who will make her future home in Louisville and Mr. Sautley Hughes of Lancaster all of whom survive her. Besides these children and her sorrowing husband, she is survived by one brother, Capt. T. A. Elkin, and one sister Mrs. Osee Huffman, the former living in this county, while the latter lives in Louisville Ky.

Of the many good women of the town and county who have passed to the Great Beyond, there has not perhaps been one taken in late years whose death has occasioned more widespread sorrow than has Mrs. Hughes. Unobtrusive in manner, she yet joined to her by the bonds of love and friendship all with whom she came in contact. Through a lifetime spent in the community she was known to all, and her kind and gentle manner led all classes to love and respect her. The most devoted of wives and mothers, she yet in her gentle kindly way found many occasions to show some little kindly act to those about her, and so unobtrusive were these little acts that the recipients could but believe that they came from the bottom of her generous, kindly heart. A devoted Christian and a long and faithful member of the Christian church, and a regular attendant at the church services when her health would permit, surely she, if any person ever was, was ready at the Master's summons, and it mattered not if that summons came unexpectedly. Surely the world is better for her having lived in it.

The heartfelt sympathy of the community is extended to the stricken family in their sorrow, and especially does the hearts of the people go out in tenderest feeling to Judge Hughes in his great bereavement. May the Great Comforter palliate his affliction.

REVIVAL CONTINUES WITH MUCH INTEREST.

The revival which began at the Christian church on Sept. 17th, continues with unabated interest, the church being crowded at each service. Rev. Roy L. Brown, the evangelist in charge is a preacher of wonderful ability and many are being added to the church. The meeting will probably close next Sunday night. Up to this time about fifty have been added to the church, both by confession and by letter.

GREAT VICTORY FOR CAUSE OF PROHIBITION NINE OUT OF TWELVE COUNTIES In Monday's Election Vote "Dry".

The cause of Prohibition in Kentucky won a decided victory on last Monday when nine out of twelve counties in the state voting on the issue, entered the columns of the "dry." Fayette, Henderson and Anderson counties were the only counties in which a vote was taken which gave a majority to the "wets". In Fayette county the county and the city of Lexington both gave majorities to the liquor interest, the majority in the aggregate amounting to 3264. In Henderson county both the county and the city of Henderson went wet, the total majority amounting to 1,053 votes for saloons, while in Anderson county the sailing was not so easy, the three Lawrenceburg precincts, together with McBrayer and Tyrone going wet by 547, while the remainder of the county gave a dry majority of 483, leaving a scant majority of 54 votes for the whisky people.

The majorities returned in Monday's election are as follows: Drys, Bell 385, Bourbon 405, Boone 530, Clark 845, Carroll 327, Mason 333, Montgomery 210, Scott 213 and Shelby 583. The wet majorities are given above.

The results of Monday's election means the elimination of 111 saloons from Kentucky's rapidly diminishing number.

The elections all passed off quietly and no serious disorder was reported from any point where elections were held, and there appears to have been very little ill feeling engendered throughout the spirited contests.

LATEST WAR NEWS

War news continues to be vague, contradictory and wholly unsatisfactory. The latest reports from the headquarters of the allies in both London and Paris indicate that the area of country covered by the troops is so large that the progress made against the Germans is of a necessity slow. Heavy fighting continues all along the line with out any decided victory for either side.

Late dispatches indicate that the Germans have begun their attacks upon the first line of the Antwerp defenses, that they have reoccupied Malines, have occupied Molles an important rail way junction and are bombarding Antwerp.

The Japanese in the far east are actively engaged in a movement by both land and sea against the German concession of Kiau Cho in Shantung province, China. China troops are said to have blown up bridges and are resisting the Japanese invasion of Shantung.

Reports from the Russian campaign against Germany and Austria are that both armies are having a temporary cessation of hostilities while getting their vast armies into position for a resumption of battle and are preparing their lines for both offensive and defensive operations.

Late reports issued from London report the German right wing broken and the allies pursuing the fleeing automobiles, French said to have surrounded Germany's Somme, extending their own lines farther east. Peronne is also said to have been recaptured. Herculean efforts are being made to retake ground lost by France recently in neighborhood of Verdun Fortress.

The screaming up to the minute farce "Pacifying Mexican" produced by Charley Gano this season with Coburn Greater Minstrels next Saturday night at the Opera House assisted by Nicodemus Glynn and the entire Co., deals with the situation in Mexico, its principal characters etc., assumed by various members of the company, in a series of ludicrous mishaps and comedy situations. The costuming and makeup of the various impersonations and characters are true to life, even the supposed jargon of the Mexican "soldados" (soldiers) etc., being utilized for comedy purposes by the comedians. This is the biggest and best company manager Coburn has ever presented in Lancaster. Seats on sale at R. E. McRoberts Drug Store.

REV. JOHN M. BRUCE PASSES TO HIS REWARD In Dallas Texas.

Rev. John M. Bruce, one of the most prominent ministers of the Baptist church in Kentucky, a native of Boyle county, and well known in Lancaster and Garfield county, where he has often preached, and is much beloved, died in Dallas, Tex., on the 25th inst. In accordance with his own request and in compliance with desires of the church of which he was in charge at the time of his death, his remains were brought to Horse Cave for interment. Rev. Bruce was 63 years of age. He is survived by two brothers, Messrs J. L. and R. D. Bruce of Boyle county.

TILLET.

Miss Martha G. Tillett died at the family residence on Hill Court in this city on last Monday, and after funeral services by her pastor, Rev. Politt, her remains were laid to rest in the Lancaster cemetery on Tuesday afternoon. Her death was due to a complication of diseases following a stroke of paralysis which she suffered some time since. The deceased was born in Garrard county where the most of her life has been spent. She was 77 years of age and was a splendid Christian woman. The united with the Methodist church in her early girlhood, and was a consistent member. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. James King of McKinney, Ky., and Miss Sallie Tillett, of Lancaster and by two brothers Messrs Joshua Tillett, of Danville and Malcom G. Tillett, of Lancaster. The Record joins the many friends in condolence to the bereaved family.

COUNTY COURT BRINGS BIG CROWD.

Last Monday, county court day attracted a large crowd, the largest in many months. The crowd was perhaps as much bent on seeing the circus as on transacting any particular business incident to county court. It was also "mule colt day" and about 250 youngsters were on the market. However the market was slow and druggy and the offerings were mostly taken back home as the farmers were unwilling to accept the low prices offered. Perhaps 25 or 40 changed hands at from $15. to $110. per head. Most of these were bought by W. B. Burton of Lancaster and a Mr. Cross of Monticello.

ROSS-HURT.

Miss Vina Ross, aged 25 and Mr. Samuel J. Hurt aged 44, were united in marriage in the study of Rev. F. M. Tindler on Wednesday afternoon, that gentleman officiating. The bride is an attractive young lady of the Flat Woods section of the county, while the groom is a son of Mr. Josh Hurt of Point Leavell. The groom bears the unique distinction of being one of Garrard county's leading "factories", he and his pocket knife constituting the machinery used in the manufacture of the "Sam Hurt Cob Pipe", a commodity known the world over. Mr. Hurt makes by hand, using only an ordinary pocket knife, a sufficient number of these pipes in a year to net him and income close to $1,600. The pipes range in price from 10 cents to $5.00 each, and his orders are always far in excess of his supply. A New York tobaccoist has a standing order for his surplus stock.

Mr. Hurt's pipes are frequently seen in the hall of Congress, are shipped all over this country and in many instances to foreign countries. They are much used by the gentlemen who are given to follow the hounds, and through these fox hunters they have been widely introduced both in this country and England.

Mr. Hurt's industry stands in no danger of competition, as many have tried but none have ever succeeded in equalling his workmanship, and the use of machinery in the manufacture of the class of articles which Mr. Hurt produces would be impossible.

The Doty homestead in Lancaster, the "Dr. Price Property" on Danville street, and also 94 acres of land at Point Leavell, which were advertised to be sold at Commissioners' sale on last Monday in order to settle the estate, were purchased by Mr. Alex. Doty Jr. The home place brought $3100 and the land $200. per acre.

SCHOOL NOTES.

(By Wm. F. Miller.)

Mrs. J. E. Dickerson and son, and Mrs. Siler were recent visitors at our school.

Miss Smith's room will entertain next Friday morning. The public is cordially invited.

Bro. J. R. Smith visited our school Tuesday and conducted the exercises.

The Lancaster High School football boys will go to Somerset tomorrow for the first game of the season. We haven't such a strong team but hope to put up classy ball against the Somerset squad. Mr. Carver will accompany the following players and subs: Bradley Bourne, Paul Elliot, Capt. Gowan Bourne, Sterling Herron, Glass Carrier Treas, Wood Wilcott; Cecil Brown, Robert Kinnaird, James Nevins, Billy Miller, Mgr., Dalton Rich, Wesley Dickerson, Howard Montgomery and Harry Rainey.

The young Ladies of the High School assisted by Misses Robinson, Mason, Hatcher and Ezell have made arrangements for a Basket Ball team. They will begin steady practice within a short while for the purpose of supporting a good team.

Last Friday ended the first month's School work for the year.

Bargains that a bargains at Logan, Anderson & Tomlinson.

The biggest and best company ever carried by Coburn's Greater Minstrels next Saturday night at the Opera House. Positively an entirely new programme and productions with Charley Gano and Nicodemus Glynn as principal comedians, the best men in minstrelsy and an Olio of six big minstrel vaudeville features and two screaming farce comedy skits.

Fatigued by an arduous journey to Lexington last week to see the circus and by frequent excursions to adjoining towns in search of "ads" for the Record, our Business Manager, Mr. R. L. Elkin has bled himself to "County's" to recuperate and enjoy a weeks fishing. He was accompanied by Mr. John M. Farra who is also considerably worn by the labors incident to farm life, and by Rev. J. Rockwell Smith and Mr. Fred Frisbie.

We hope that the health giving waters of Rockcastle Springs may prove of vast benefit to this clever quartette of gentlemen, and that they may return rested in both mind and body.

GRAPHIC CHAPTERS IN NEWS OF THE GREATEST WAR

IN NEWS OF THE DRAMA IN HISTORY

Spectacular Incidents and Heroic Deeds Reported From the Front.

PARAGRAPHS in the news from Europe's arena of battle imbue the reader with a vivid sense of what such a terrible war means. These little stories, so numerous in the dispatches from the zone of action, recount instances of daimless courage in the face of shot and shell and spectacular and tragic incidents.

The London Daily Telegraph presents this vivid picture of the battle of the Aisne:

"To the ghastly fields about Puisieux I came, through the haunting horrors of men in gray and blue lying on the roadside. One man was kneeling with his rifle on the shattered stump of a telegraph pole. He might have just sighted the enemy, but the finger on the trigger was stiff and cold, and through the brow of the soldier was a tiny hole.

Blazed Trail With Blood.

"Here on the sloping plain they fought the batteries. You can trace the path of the men who fed the batteries. They have blazed the trail with their blood. You can see where the ammunition wagons waited in the rear and where the horses stamped with impatient hoof.

"And the gunners, the men who fought among flame and thunder in a hurricane of lead and steel shards, you can see where they stood behind this earthen wall; where they mended the shattered parapet with spent cases; where they took cover in a cave dug in the side of the emplacement when answering guns had got the range and poured upon them a deadly shower. Men and guns have gone, the broad fields are silent, deserted, and all the emplacements are empty except two. Outlined against the gray sky are the skeletons of guns. There is always some strange attraction about a gun that has been wounded in battle. It is like a human being. It was the same with these German guns. I felt as if I stood before men who had fought like heroes, who had been sorely wounded and left on the battlefield.

This Is War.

"Here, one among ten thousand, is the history of a French private, wounded near Noyon," cables a correspondent.

"We lay together, my friend and I. The order to fire came. We shot and shot until our rifles burned us. Still the Germans swarmed on toward us. We took careful aim.

"Did you see that? I turned to ask my friend.

"And as I did so I heard a terrible dull sound, like a spade striking newly turned earth. His head had fallen forward. I called him by name. He was moaning a little. Then I turned to my work again.

"They were advancing quickly now. Ah, how cool I was! I shot so slowly, and then—do you know what it feels like to be wounded? I rose just a little too high on my elbow. A sting pierced my arm like a hot wire. It was too sharp almost to be sore. I felt my arm go from me, and then my rifle fell. I was a little dazed. I looked at my friend presently. He was dead."

A Maddening Vision.

The following description of the advance of a battery across a stricken field is from an account given by a wounded French artilleryman in a hospital at Bordeaux:

"Never shall I forget that most terrible scene when we rushed our horses and guns across the field, covered all over with the bodies of dead and dying German soldiers. As we swept across the field we heard the crunching of bones under the horses' feet and gun wheels.

"Every now and again the horses staggered, stumbled and slipped in their mad run over those hundreds of corpses. I did not venture to look about, but kept my eyes steadily fixed at a distant point of my horse's neck, but I heard blood stirring cries of agony and despair, mingled with moaning and weeping, which dominated the noise of my galloping horses and guns.

"Once, when my horse slipped and fell on one knee I saw on my left the wreck of a man springing in his feet and make a wild gesture with his arms as if to stop the deadly avalanche. He was knocked down by the horses of a gun next to mine and I heard the creaking of his bones. This maddening vision has ever since haunted me."

Burying Dead at Night.

A London Daily News correspondent who has returned to Paris from the neighborhood of Senlis tells of a new corps of the French army. He says:

"When the curtain of night has fallen the corps of the sextons go from villages and farmsteads, an uneasy, silent procession, to set forth about their business among the dead, their way illuminated by horn lanterns and torches, and their shadows dance ghoul-like in the flicker of the beams—little old men, most of them, and bent double, but their shadows amid the trees are shadows of giants.

"Their women follow behind bearing little bundles of peeled willow wands and strands of wire. They cut a few inches from each wand and bind it on crosswise with the wire, and whenever an officer is found cold and stiff amid the dead a cross of willow wand is placed over his grave.

"Hour after hour, night after night, the corps of sextons with the women ply their trade, marking cemetery after cemetery. Their bundles of sticks diminish as this acreage of the dead swells."

Air Men Who Know No Fear.

A dispatch from Senlis to the London Times describes the thrilling flight of a British air man. It says:

"A British air man flew over the German lines on the Aisne. He was fired at by 100 sharpshooters and guns throwing a shell specially designed for such work. Several bullets pierced the wings of his machine, and a shell burst beside the aeroplane, sending the pilot reeling giddily sideways through space, but he finished his reconnaissance. He marked the placing of the great guns, the lines of trenches and the direction of shell fire. Even in his giddy moment he swooped down close to a wood where the artillery was concealed, taking almost unthinkable risks.

"In almost every aerial reconnaissance bullets pierce the aeroplanes. They have descended over forest land almost to the tops of trees, through forest land known to be swarming with soldiers. They have skimmed over trenches and batteries in the face of tremendous fusillades and have won priceless information."

Germans' Daring Attempt.

Germans disguised as French officers made a daring attempt to blow up the railway bridge six miles and a half from Rouen. The plan was obviously to sever railroad communication between Havre, Rouen and Paris.

The French officers' uniforms worn by the Germans fitted well, and every man carried the necessary identification papers, obtained, of course, from the prisoners whose uniforms were used. By means of their papers they were able to pass guards and posts.

Information was circulated that two touring cars carrying French officers had acted suspiciously at Gisors, dashing through the town and through patrols that challenged them at Gournay. They were shot at by gendarmes, but they escaped, and all traces were lost.

They were finally caught at Oisette after they had alighted from the motor-cars and were in the act of carrying explosives toward the bridge. A large quantity of explosives was found in the cars. The prisoners confessed that they had received orders to blow up the bridge in order to prevent reinforcements and supplies from reaching the French army.

Rescued by the Enemy.

A little wounded French trooper tells of being rescued by Germans. "I pretended to be dead," he said, "as I thought it safer. The second German firing line was a long way off, so when the first had passed I got up and went down along, but two strong German troops caught me up. I thought I was done for, but not a bit of it. They actually gave me a handkerchief to bind my wounds and then went away, and as I lay there in a trench I could not help roaring with laughter. Both were wounded in the leg, but one man's game leg was the right one, and the other one's was the left, and they looked ridiculous as they hobnobbed off."

Shells Halt Plunge Bath.

A British guardsman, now at Woolwich, who was wounded near Compiègne on Sept. 1, has given a vivid account of the fighting there.

"We were in a field," he says, "when the Germans dropped on us all of a sudden, as though from the sky. The first hint we had of their presence was when a battery of guns on the right sang out, dropping shells into a mob of us who were waiting for our turn at the wash-trub—the river. There was no panic as far as I saw, only some of our fellows, who hadn't had a wash for a long time, said strong things about the Germans for spoiling the best chance we had had for four days."

Cossacks' Trick Horses.

The prowess of the Russian Cossacks is especially remarkable. As scouts they are unequalled. At all times their horsemanship enables them to deal successfully with cavalry of the enemy four or five times superior in number. Their horses are skilled in every conceivable trick. A Cossack horse will drop "dead" under its rider at the word, springing up the next moment. The rider combines all the arts of the circus performer and red Indian with perfect command of his horse, and the horses are as handy as polo ponies.

Families Wiped Out.

The Berlin correspondent of the New Rotterdam Courant writes:

"The most gloomy sight to be seen in these days is the advertisements of deaths in the dignified Kreuz Zeitung. The families of officers there make known the blows that have fallen upon them. In the last few days this newspaper has published fifty death announcements of officers."

Toned Up Whole System.

"Chamberlain's Tablets have done more for me than I ever dared hope for," writes Mrs. Esther Mae Baker, Spencerport, N. Y. "I used several bottles of these tablets a few months ago. They not only cured me of bilious attacks, sick headaches and that tired feeling, but toned up my whole system." For sale by all dealers.
